PGTF Scope + Charter
(Vic Colman, Uncommon Solutions)

Question posed to PGTF: Should PGTF extend the scope of problem gambling to include problem online video gaming?

Discussion

- Dave Trujillo: Need to come to a common understanding of the terms we are using
- Ty Lostutter: We currently regulate gambling and gaming as two different industries and as such are treated a separate, do we need to first to combine them to regulate them together or do we try to regulate two different industries. Currently we have gambling commission, we do not currently have gaming commission. Do you need to do this first? Given the gaming as preliminary research and expanding treatment education, but since we don't have regulatory control or gaming funds toward this issue yet, should the committee suggest a preliminary research/educational shared priority.
- Brian Considine: Currently, this has been a topic of discussion as the line between gambling and video games continues to blur. Right now, the focus has been the use of gambling or gambling-related aspects under Gambling Commission authority or look to the AGO or others to work on things from a consumer protection issue Committee can definitely make recommendations to the Legislature for the 2021 session on how it should address this issue and if there is something separate or more specific that should be considered for the 2021 session.
- Brian Considine: Not to sidetrack, this was a topic Rep. Kloba added in the Task Force bill before it went into the budget and it was removed because of the concern that it may be too much for the Task Force to handle when we are trying to get a better handle on the underlying Problem Gambling issue—the proviso doesn't prevent the group from taking this on but was something considered regarding the bill during the 2019 session and then left off as something that would be a primary focus.
- Comm. Patterson: Rather than including in the PGTF scope, online gaming/gambling be included in the prevalence study
- Maureen Greeley: Wants to make sure that future study of youth not be lost (recommendation to the Legislature to always include a problem gambling question in the Health Youth Survey)

Decision: Decided to not change the scope of Charter for now (other than including internet gaming/gambling in the prevalence study).
